Recognizing this, the Company considers the rational use and disposal of resources in construction and material selection, and strives to promote the renewable use of water resources, enabling buildings to recycle water during rainy days to reduce urban runoff and minimize the risk of flooding. Additionally, during droughts, the Company utilizes the site's water retention properties and harvested rainwater for irrigation and general cleaning, mitigating the impacts of drought. By prioritizing environmental protection and addressing climate change issues, the Company aims to provide high-quality residences, which contributes to the sales of the Company's projects. (IV) The Company takes into account the impact of climate change, and implemented policies related to energy saving, carbon reduction and greenhouse gas reduction, including paperless office, turning off lights during lunch breaks, allowing flexibility on indoor air-conditioning, and maintenance and repair of air-conditioning equipment on a regular basis. | 1. Describe the monitoring and governance of climate-related risks and opportunities by the Board of Directors and the management. | 1. The Company is deeply aware of the possible major impacts of climate change on the construction industry, whether it is the interference of extreme weather to the progress and safety of construction projects, or the challenges posed by increasingly strict requirements on carbon reduction and sustainable buildings at home and abroad. Therefore, climate-related risks and opportunities have been incorporated into our corporate governance structure and core of decision-making. (I) Supervisory duties of the Board of Directors <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Inclusions in the agenda of the board meetingThe board meeting includes "climate-related risks and opportunities" on its official agenda at least once a year, and listens to project reports from the sustainable development team or risk management department. The content covers climate risk identification results, potential financial impacts, response strategies, and the latest regulatory trends to ensure that the senior management maintains effective control over major risks.</li> <li>Establishment of a dedicated committee mechanismThe "Sustainable Development Committee" has been established under the Board of Directors of the Company and includes directors from engineering, finance and legal backgrounds, responsible for reviewing and guiding the Company's climate strategy, carbon reduction goals and information disclosure, in order to strengthen its supervisory function.</li> <li>Strategy integration and resource approvalThe Board of Directors reviews and approves mid-term and long-term development strategies related to climate issues, such as building a carbon reduction path, ESG budgeting, green building materials investment plan, etc. to ensure that resource allocation is consistent with the Company's sustainability goals.</li> </ol> (II) Role of the management in execution <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Cross-department integration and executionOn the management level, the President or Vice President serves as the leader of the climate governance project, and coordinates the relevant departments of engineering, design, procurement, legal affairs and risk control to establish the "Climate Change Response Working Group", which is responsible for the concrete implementation of the board of directors' strategies and guidelines, and reports every six months to the Sustainability Committee on the implementation.</li> <li>Systematization of climate risk and opportunity assessmentThe management team has introduced a climate risk assessment process, with reference to the TCFD recommended framework to distinguish between physical risks (such as the impact of typhoons, rainstorms, and extreme high temperatures on construction projects and labor health) and transition risks (such as carbon tax, building regulation updates, and ESG requirements for investors), and identify potential opportunities (such as green building labeling, smart building solutions, market growth, etc.), and incorporate them into the risk management system and investment evaluation process.</li> <li>Establishment of specific goals and a tracking mechanismTo enhance management effectiveness, the Company has set specific climate goals, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Annual carbon emission reduction target for construction</li> <li>Percentage of green building design in new projects</li> <li>The replacement rate of site energy-saving equipment is regularly monitored through KPI indicators and performance reviews. The results are included in the consideration of the senior management's reward.</li> </ul> </li> <li>Training and internal capacity buildingThe Company continues to strengthen employees' knowledge of climate change issues through internal training and external lectures, and designs exclusive education courses for engineering, procurement, and design personnel to improve climate risk identification and response capabilities.</li> </ol> (III) Information disclosure and external communicationFollowing the recommendations of TCFD, the Company has gradually established a framework for climate finance disclosure, including: |

| 2. Describe how the identified climate risks and opportunities affect the Company's business, strategy and finance (short-, mid-, and long-term). | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Disclosing the corporate governance structure, risk assessment results, preliminary analysis of financial impacts, and response strategies and progress in the annual sustainability report.</li> <li>• Regularly briefing investors on the Company's climate strategy and concrete actions to enhance the trust of external stakeholders.</li> <li>• Complying with the sustainable disclosure requirements of the competent authority and the TWSE, and continuously improving the transparency and comparability of disclosure.</li> </ul> 2. The Company identifies the risks and opportunities brought about by climate change based on the framework of TCFD, and analyzes their potential impact on the Company's business, strategy, and finance in the short term (1~3 years), medium term (3~10 years) and long term (over 10 years) as follows: I. Impact on business In the short term, extreme climate events (such as typhoons, torrential rains, and high temperatures) will have a significant impact on the construction progress and safety management, often resulting in project delays, additional construction costs, and increased labor safety risks. In addition, the demand for green buildings and energy-saving designs from customers and property owners will gradually increase, requiring the Company to provide more sustainable building solutions, which will bring about changes in the structure of business orders. In the medium term, with the tightening of environmental regulations and the gradual implementation of carbon tariffs and carbon inventory systems, some high-carbon projects will face higher costs and development thresholds, and the Company must re-evaluate their business feasibility. At the same time, the market's demand for smart buildings and low-carbon facilities will grow rapidly, and companies with sustainable capabilities will be able to prioritize large-scale development projects, government tenders, and foreign cooperation opportunities. In the long run, climate change may fundamentally change the regional development pattern. For example, sea level rise may cause doubts about the feasibility of developing low-lying areas, and may also result in a decline in business volume in some areas. For enterprises with green building and net zero performance, opportunities in new business areas will develop, such as carbon asset management, renewable energy integration, etc. II. Impact on strategies In the short term, the Company has started to strengthen the climate risk identification and data inventory mechanism, and has incorporated carbon emission and energy management into the early stage of construction project planning to ensure that new projects can meet the regulatory and market requirements that will be launched soon. In addition, we have initiated cross-departmental capacity building in sustainable building design to meet customers' expectations for low-carbon solutions. The medium-term strategic focus will shift to organizational transformation and technology upgrades, including clearly defining carbon reduction goals and phased KPIs, introducing BIM and carbon management tools, expanding the supply chain of green building materials, and actively participating in smart building platforms and industry-government-academia cooperation projects to ensure the Company maintains its leading position in the wave of net zero transformation. The long-term strategy focuses on redefining and deepening the core competitiveness of the enterprise. In the future, the Company will not only continue to deepen the core business, but also evaluate and expand innovative businesses related to climate change, such as modular manufacturing for low-carbon buildings, carbon credit trading, and construction resource recycling to further enhance the sustainable value of the enterprise. III. Impact on finance In the short term, the investment required to respond to climate risks will be reflected in the increase in operating costs, including the purchase of site energy-saving equipment, the establishment of a carbon emission inventory and calculation system, ESG disclosure costs, and personnel training expenditures, which may cause pressure on short-term profits. In the mid-term, with the full implementation of carbon reduction projects, the initial investment amount of some construction projects will increase (such as the use of low-carbon building materials, installation of energy-saving facilities, etc.), but through design optimization and scale benefits, the overall return on investment can still be maintained. At the same time, the Company can also obtain better financing conditions and reduce the cost of capital by applying for green financing or perpetual bonds. In the long run, the Company expects that enterprises with climate resilience and sustainable performance will enjoy the advantages of |

| 3. Describe the financial impact of extreme climate events and transformation actions. | brand premium and customer loyalty in the market, which will help increase selling prices and profit margins. In addition, as investment institutions gradually pay more attention to ESG performance, a favorable climate strategy will improve corporate valuations and the attractiveness of funds, thereby strengthening the overall financial soundness. 3. The Company divides the financial impacts of climate change into two major categories: physical risks caused by extreme climate events, and risks and expenses related to transformation actions taken in response to climate change. These factors will affect the Company in terms of cost and expenditure, revenue structure, source of funds and financial stability. The descriptions are as follows: I. Financial impact of extreme climate events (physical risk) Climate change has resulted in the increasing frequency of extreme climate events such as typhoons, torrential rains, extreme high temperatures and droughts, which caused the following financial impacts on the Company's construction business: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Increase in construction delays and direct lossesTyphoons, torrential rains and high temperatures will interrupt construction on the site and damage materials, resulting in delays in construction deadlines and the risk of contract default. Additional construction fees, fines, and idle machinery costs will directly increase the total construction cost and erode gross profit margins.</li> <li>2. Rising insurance premiums and risk provisionsIn response to the rising risk of disasters, the Company needs to increase the scope of site insurance coverage and premiums, and prepare more loss provisions to deal with unpredictable natural disasters and increase operating cash pressure.</li> <li>3. Fluctuations in material and supply chain costsExtreme weather may also affect the production and transportation of raw materials (such as steel bars and cement), resulting in unstable materials acquisition or price fluctuations. It is necessary to purchase or prepare materials in advance at higher prices and increase construction costs.</li> <li>4. Impact of long-term regional risks on land development valueFor example, rising sea levels and increased inundation potential may increase development risks in some areas, affect land evaluation and sales value, and further affect land or construction inventory value in asset statements.</li> </ol> II. Financial impact of transformation actions (transformation risks related to policies, regulations, and market) In response to global climate policies and market transformation trends, the Company will face the following financial challenges and resource allocation pressures in the medium and long term: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Operation cost due to the implementation of the carbon pricing systemIf the government promotes the carbon fee system in the future, the greenhouse gas emissions generated by the Company's construction process will be converted into actual costs, and the carbon fee must be paid according to the emission volume, which will cause substantial pressure on operating profits.</li> <li>2. Increase in investment spending at the initial stage of carbon reduction transformationIn order to achieve the goal of carbon reduction, the Company needs to invest capital expenditures in energy-saving equipment, low-carbon building materials, smart monitoring systems and other fields. This will reduce cash flow and return on investment in the short term and affect financial indicators.</li> <li>3. Rising costs of carbon inventory and ESG disclosureTo comply with ESG disclosure guidelines, the Company must conduct greenhouse gas inventories, set carbon reduction goals, and propose specific implementation paths. This requires investment of manpower and consulting fees, and may also lead to an increase in internal management fees.</li> <li>4. Non-sustainable construction projects may affect sales and financingThe market and investors are paying increasing attention to green buildings and net zero carbon emissions. If the Company does not transform in time, it may cause some of the construction projects to fail to sell well, increase financing interest rates, and even be rated as high-risk customers by financial institutions.</li> <li>5. Asset revaluation and financial reporting risksHigh-carbon equipment or non-sustainable lands and facilities may face asset impairment during the transformation process, which affects the evaluation of financial statements, and thus corporate valuation and shareholders' equity.</li> </ol> |

| 4. Describe how climate risk identification, assessment, and management processes are integrated into the overall risk management system. 5. If a scenario analysis is used to assess the resilience to climate change risks, the scenarios, parameters, assumptions, analysis factors and main financial impacts used shall be explained. | Comprehensive assessment Extreme weather events and the pressure of policy transformation brought about by climate change have gradually intensified the financial impact of the construction industry. Although they may result in higher capital expenditures and operating costs in the short term, if they are responded to early with the sustainable transformation measures introduced, risk exposure can be reduced, green financing conditions can be obtained, and brand value can be created in the medium and long term, which are helpful to improve corporate financial strength and market competitiveness. 4. The Company treats climate change-related risks as a part of overall operational risks and incorporates them into the existing risk management framework for integrated management. In response to the possible impacts of extreme climate events and transformation trends, we regularly review the sources of risks in operations, engineering, and strategies through cross-department cooperation, and assess their potential impacts on the Company's operations, finance, and long-term development. Climate risks are identified and assessed through reports from internal departments, market trend tracking, and analysis of regulatory changes. These are incorporated into the annual risk inventory process. Important climate risk issues are reported to the management and the board of directors, and corresponding measures are formulated as appropriate, such as optimizing the construction schedule, adjusting the design of construction projects, and responding to regulatory requirements in advance. We are also gradually introducing a more systematic management process to incorporate climate considerations into our major investment decisions and new project planning process, and will continue to monitor relevant policies and market developments to ensure that our risk response mechanism can be upgraded in parallel with our overall risk management system. 5. In order to assess the operational resilience of the Company under the climate change scenario, the Company has conducted a preliminary climate risk scenario analysis with reference to the methods recommended by TCFD (climate-related financial disclosures). The analysis covers the possible impact on the Company's business and finance in different climate development paths, in order to assess the necessity of future strategic adjustments and risk responses. Two types of typical scenarios are adopted in this scenario analysis: I. Scenarios of dramatic transformation (such as controlling the temperature increase within 1.5°C) Under this scenario, governments around the world will significantly tighten carbon emission-related laws and regulations, and promote policies such as carbon fee/carbon tax, carbon inventory and disclosure, building energy efficiency standards, and the mandatory use of green building materials. Major financial impacts: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Rising operating costs: It is necessary to pay a carbon fee (depending on the carbon emissions), and at the same time invest in energy-saving equipment, green building materials, and net zero design fees, which drives up the initial investment cost of a construction project.</li> <li>Increase in capital expenditure: The need to upgrade site machinery and tools, introduce carbon management and monitoring system, and adjust construction methods will increase the medium-term capital investment demand.</li> <li>Financial planning and cash flow pressure: If the transformation investment is concentrated in the short term, it may cause capital crowding and affect other investments or the stability of cash flow.</li> <li>Improvement of financing conditions: After the successful transformation, it is expected to obtain preferential interest rates such as green financing and perpetual bonds, which will help reduce medium- and long-term financing costs.</li> <li>Room for improving the value of construction projects: The construction projects that introduce green building design and ESG label may have the potential to sell at a premium and improve the gross profit margin and brand value.</li> </ol> II. Out-of-control climate scenario (such as a temperature increase over 4°C) In the absence of transformational actions, the frequency and intensity of the extreme climate will increase significantly, posing long-term threats to construction safety, construction duration, and location development conditions. Major financial impacts: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Construction delays and cost increase: Natural disasters will cause delays in construction periods, increase the fixed costs of labor, equipment and site, and may result in contract penalties or losses due to delayed house deliveries.</li> </ol> |

If there is a transformation plan in response to the management of climate-related risks, describe the content of the plan, and the indicators and goals used to identify and manage physical risks and transformation risks. 7. If internal carbon pricing is used as a planning tool, the basis for setting the price shall be explained. | <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>2. Increase in insurance expenses: In response to the risk of disasters, the Company will need to increase the insured amount and premiums of site insurance, resulting in an increase in recurring expenses.</li> <li>3. Increase in post-disaster repair expenditures and loss reserves: Unstable weather will lead to an increase in the frequency of site damage, and the Company will need to retain more disaster loss reserves, which erodes the working capital.</li> <li>4. Changes in the value of development locations: In some areas, increased climate risks (e.g., floods, sea level rises, etc.) may result in a decline in land value and the need for additional disaster prevention design, affecting the return on investment.</li> <li>5. Risk of potential asset impairment: If existing facilities or assets without disaster resistance capabilities are downgraded, it may lead to asset impairment, affecting the Company's financial performance and shareholder equity.</li> </ol> SummaryRegardless of whether it is a drastic transformation or an out-of-control climate scenario, it is possible for a construction company to face a substantial financial impact. The differences are: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Transformation scenario → The rise in cost is concentrated in the short-to-medium term, but there is potential for long-term return (e.g. green building premium, green financing)</li> <li>• Out-of-control climate scenario → Costs and losses are more uncertain, and the financial impact is long-term and difficult to predict, posing greater challenges to stable operations</li> </ul> Therefore, the Company will continue to optimize risk management and financial flexibility, and adopt a proactive transformation strategy to enhance future financial stability and market competitiveness. 6. In response to the possible impact of climate change on operations, the Company has started to plan and promote a series of transformation actions to reduce climate-related risks and strengthen the resilience and sustainable competitiveness of long-term operations.Our transformation plan mainly focuses on improving the energy conservation and carbon reduction capabilities of construction projects, introducing green building design, gradually grasping our own carbon emissions, and optimizing the engineering process and improving the selection of materials to reduce the future risks from regulations, carbon costs and market trends.In response to the physical risks of extreme climate events and operational interruptions, we have also strengthened site safety and disaster response mechanisms, and incorporate climate risk considerations in the construction project design stage to reduce the probability of loss and the scope of impact caused by disasters.In terms of risk management, we have established a basic tracking mechanism and internal indicators to review key items such as carbon emissions, use of green building materials, and the impact of climate events on construction duration, and have gradually incorporated these indicators into operational evaluation and strategic planning. This is the basis for future resource investment and decision-making adjustments.Overall, climate transition is a long-term project. The Company will continue to adjust its pace according to government policies and industry development trends, and strengthen cross-department collaboration to gradually implement the goals of climate risk management and low-carbon transition. 7. Internal carbon pricing as the basis for pricing planning toolsIn order to improve the management ability of carbon emission risk, and to respond to the possible implementation of carbon fee and carbon tax system in the future, the Company is gradually introducing the internal carbon pricing as an auxiliary tool for project planning and investment evaluation. By internalizing carbon emission costs, it helps the Company incorporate climate factors and potential costs in engineering design, building material selection, and capital expenditures to improve decision quality and climate resilience.The internal carbon pricing is determined based on the direction of the government's carbon pricing policy, domestic and foreign carbon pricing cases, and the Company's actual operating conditions. The current reference interval includes the trial value of the carbon tariff proposed by the government (such as NTD300 to NTD1,000 per ton), the practices of benchmark companies in the region, and the impact of the possible introduction of an international carbon tariff (such as CBAM) in the mid-to-long term in the future.In practical application, we have included this internal carbon price in the preliminary financial trial, selection of building materials and green design assessment of new projects to evaluate the financial rationality of different solutions under the condition of carbon cost, and |

If climate-related goals are set, the activities covered, the scope of greenhouse gas emissions, the period planned, and the progress in each year should be explained; if carbon offsets or renewable energy certificates (RECs) are used to achieve the goals, explain the source and quantity of carbon reduction credits or quantity of RECs for which they are exchanged. 9. Greenhouse gas inventories, assurance status, and reduction targets, strategies, and concrete action plans (please fill in 1-1 and 1-2 separately). | help the project team choose a path with more sustainable performance and economic benefits. This mechanism also helps to identify high carbon emission activities and potential risk projects in advance, serving as the basis for carbon management and transformation priorities. With the evolution of policies and market development, the Company will regularly review the internal carbon price setting to ensure that it is consistent with the external trend, and gradually establish a complete internal carbon cost consideration framework to strengthen the financial response capability of the company to climate change risks. 8. The Company pays attention to the potential impact of climate change on industrial development, and also understands the role and external expectations of corporate environmental responsibilities. No specific target for greenhouse gas reduction or use of renewable energy has been formally set so far. However, internal discussions and information collection have been initiated to understand the possible impact of climate risks on operations.In terms of management, the Company will continue to keep abreast of domestic and foreign carbon pricing policies, the evolution of construction-related regulations, and changes in the market's demand for green buildings and sustainable development, so as to serve as a reference for evaluating whether to introduce relevant management measures in the future. The Company does not currently use carbon offsetting or renewable energy certificates (RECs). In the future, we will carefully evaluate its applicability based on operational needs and supporting policies.Whether to set specific goals in the future will depend on the overall consideration of multiple factors such as climate policies, industry trends, and the Company's development strategies. The Company will make appropriate decisions at appropriate times and explain to the public as necessary. 9. Please refer to the following. |

1-1 The Company's Greenhouse Gas Inventory and Assurance in the Most Recent Two Years

1-1-1 Greenhouse Gas Inventory Information

| Describe the greenhouse gas emission volume (tons CO2e), intensity (tons CO2e/NTD million), and data coverage in the most recent two years.                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |                                               |                                |                                      |                                |                                      |

| The Company has not yet comprehensively introduced a greenhouse gas inventory system, and there is no direct greenhouse gas emissions of Scope 1. However, preliminary statistics on the consumption of electricity and water in daily operations are conducted, and greenhouse gas emissions are estimated based on the emission coefficient. Below are the results: |                                               |                                |                                      |                                |                                      |

1-2 Greenhouse gas reduction goals, strategies and concrete action plans

|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Describe the greenhouse gas reduction base year and data, reduction goals, strategies, and concrete action plans and achievement of the reduction |

goals.

The Company has tentatively set 2023 as the base year for greenhouse gas reduction, and has completed preliminary carbon emission statistics. In 2023, the total greenhouse gas emission from the electricity and water consumption of the office premises was approximately 21.364 tons CO<sub>2</sub>e. This data will be used as a starting point for the subsequent promotion of carbon management and reduction.

I. Reduction target setting

Based on the actual operation characteristics and the current sources of carbon emissions, the Company has set the following medium-term reduction targets:

- By the end of 2027 (within 5 years after the base year) achieve a reduction of greenhouse gas emissions by 15% from that of 2023, i.e. below 18.16 tons of CO<sub>2</sub>e.
- The scope is limited to the electricity consumption and water discharge in the office area.
- The target content and benchmark value will be adjusted depending on the expansion of the scope of carbon inventory in the future.

II. Carbon reduction strategies and concrete action plans

In order to achieve the above goals, the Company intends to promote the following action items:

1. Energy-saving equipment replacement plan: Replace high-energy-consuming lighting and air-conditioning equipment, and introduce energy-saving labelled products.
2. Power monitoring and power consumption behavior optimization: Gradually introduce smart sockets or a power management system to strengthen power saving habits.
3. Internal water consumption management: Review the efficiency of water-consumption equipment and reduce unnecessary water consumption (e.g. cleaning, gardening, etc.)
4. Systematize data management: Establish a regular recording mechanism for electricity and water consumption as the basis for annual carbon emission tracking.
5. Training and employee participation: Promote low-carbon workplace behaviors to enhance employees' climate awareness and participation.

III. Target achievement status and tracking method

Starting in 2024, the Company collects statistics on the electricity and water consumption of office premises on an annual basis, and convert carbon emissions to assess the progress gap with the target. It is expected to be disclosed and reviewed in the sustainability report or internal management report.

Once the inventory system is more complete, we will gradually include construction sites, equipment use, and other physical emission sources, and re-evaluate the overall mid-term and long-term carbon reduction strategies and targets.

Note 1: It shall be processed in accordance with the schedule prescribed in paragraph 2, Article 10 of the Guidelines.

Note 2: The base year should be the year that the inspection is completed based on the boundary of the consolidated financial report. For example, pursuant to paragraph 2, Article 10 of the Guidelines, a company with a capital of more than NTD10 billion should have the 2024 consolidated financial report check completed in 2025, so the base year is 2024. If the Company has completed the check of the consolidated financial report ahead of schedule, the earlier year may be used as the base year, and the data of the base year may be calculated with a single year value or the average of several years.

The purpose of this system is to provide reasonable assurance in terms of business performance, efficiency (including profitability, performance and asset security etc), reliable, timely and transparent financial reporting, and regulatory compliance.
- II. The internal control system is designed with inherent limitations. - IV. The Company has adopted said criteria to assess the effectiveness of its internal control system design and implementation thereof.
- V. Based on the assessment result referred to in the preceding paragraph, the Company believes that the design and implementation of the internal control system (including monitoring and management of subsidiaries) as of December 31, 2024, including the achievement rate of effectiveness and efficiency of operations and reliability, timeliness, transparency, and regulatory compliance of reporting, as well as compliance with applicable laws, regulations, and bylaws, are effective and may reasonably ensure the achievement of the said goals.
- VI. The Declaration will be the major contents of the annual report and prospectus of the Company and to be publicly disclosed. #### (II) Overview of industry

1. Status and development of the industry

Real estate investment development and construction

The construction industry refers to the use of funds and land to commission a construction company to build residential or office buildings, and then sold or leased to the general public, consumers or companies after the completion of the construction. Throughout the entire construction process, construction firms need to invest a significant amount of manpower, financial resources, and materials. It also requires a considerable amount of time to complete, and it involves numerous upstream and downstream industries, such as construction plants, building materials, agency services, hydraulic engineering, architects, financial institutions, and related real estate services. Therefore, the housing construction industry is a comprehensive manufacturing industry and, in nature, it is also a service industry that serves the livelihoods of the people.

In 2024, the development of the housing market has benefited from the implementation of the Taiwanese government's housing justice policies, House Hoarding Tax 2.0, rent subsidies, and Preferential Housing Loans for the Youth. These policies are expected to continue, stimulating demand that was deferred from the previous year (2023) and leading to a significant rebound in the market this year. Additionally, the launch of the Tainan Science and Technology Industrial Zone in 2024 not only enhances living convenience but also attracts industries such as artificial intelligence (AI) and IC design, bringing about favorable opportunities for the overall real estate market in Tainan.

Quarterly Trend Chart of Tainan's Housing Price Index:

In terms of transaction volume, the total number of buildings transferred due to sale in the six metropolitan areas in 2024 was 271,309, a 14.8% increase from the same period in 2023. Among them, Taipei has an annual growth of 12.0%, New Taipei City 6.9%, Taoyuan 20.8%, Taichung 15.3%, Tainan 11.4%, and Kaohsiung 24.8%. Looking further at the historical transaction volume of each metropolitan area, Tainan has exceeded 27,000 units for the first time, the highest in history.

With the launch of the new preferential loan program for young people to start their families, the demand for "self-occupation" and "rigid" demand has intensified, and the decision-making speed of home buyers has accelerated. In addition, the rigid demand for housing brought about by the Tainan Science and Technology Park issue will contribute to the popularity of the housing market in 2025.

In terms of housing prices, the Tainan Science and Technology Park issue continues to ferment, which also drives the steady growth of Tainan's housing market.

The three major factors in favor of Tainan's real estate market:

1. Demographic bonus: Due to the employment population and home purchase spillover effect brought about by Tainan Science and Technology Park, the demographic bonus drives the real estate construction projects in the surrounding area to become the home purchase choice for the talents of Tainan Science and Technology Park.

2. Rigid demand: As the government attaches great importance to the development of Tainan Science and Technology Park, it is actively developing surrounding public facilities such as drainage and building roads to complete the road network and provide more convenient transportation, thus greatly improving the traffic problem in Tainan Science and Technology Park, and creating a new city near Shanhua. The area around Tainan continues to attract immigrants with high incomes, which gives Tainan a stable and rigid domestic-demand market.
3. Mature living functions: Phase 3 of the North Outer Ring Road was completed in December 2021, and the entire construction (including Dazhou) is expected to be completed in 2027. At that time, it will only take 15 minutes to drive from the north district to Tainan Science and Technology Park. The major construction - underground railway is expected to be completed in 2026, and new constructions including Linsen Station, South Tainan Station, etc. are in progress, which will change the appearance of Tainan, accelerate the regional development, and continue to drive up the housing prices of Tainan.

2. Correlation of the upstream, midstream and downstream segments of the industry

Real estate investment development and construction

The process of real estate investment, development, construction, production, and sale is related to many industries, such as construction, building materials, utilities, advertising, finance, escrow, decoration, and building management and maintenance. The construction industry plays a coordinating and integrating role, and its upstream and downstream industries are complementary and interdependent.

3. Macro economy, industry development trend, and product competition:
Real estate investment development and construction

Although the global COVID-19 pandemic began to slow down in 2022 and lockdowns were lifted one by one around the world, the escalated global inflation due to the loose monetary policy of the U.S. and the outbreak of the Russo-Ukrainian War made the global economic environment unstable. In addition to the global economic impact, domestic economy was also affected by the government's continuation and strengthening of its anti-speculation policies. In the second half of 2022, the effects of curbing property transactions began to manifest, and in 2023, there was a significant decrease in real estate transactions, with expectations for the property market remaining subdued. In the housing market this year, the transaction prices have fluctuated, and the transaction volume has generally decreased; overall, the housing market performance will gradually cool down.

In 2023, the global political and economic instability from 2022 continued. Although daily life in many countries had nearly returned to pre-pandemic conditions and various types of consumer spending gradually recovered, international tensions not only failed to ease but were further aggravated by the outbreak of new conflicts. Global raw material prices continued to rise, leading to a slow pace of economic recovery. Domestically, the government maintained its strengthened housing market control policies, including amendments to the Equalization of Land Rights Act and restrictions on real estate financing. As a result, the real estate market in 2023 was marked by strong wait-and-see sentiment, and transaction volumes dropped significantly. Following the conclusion of the early 2024 general elections, the domestic political and economic situation stabilized. In addition, with the United States halting interest rate hikes and instead stimulating a global trend toward rate cuts to boost the economy, the domestic real estate market showed slight improvement. It is expected that 2024 will see a modest recovery compared to 2023; however, unfavorable factors still persist, and optimism should remain cautious.

(III) Overview of technology and R&D

Given that the Company does not currently have a R&D department, and is mainly engaged in real estate investment, development, and construction; therefore, R&D investment is not applicable.

(IV) Long-term/short-term business development plan

A. Implementation of the construction brand system

With the improvement of living standards, home buyers have gradually higher quality requirements for the living environment such as building exterior design, interior layout, construction materials, equipment, and public facilities. In recent years, natural disasters have made consumers pay more attention to home safety. Therefore, in order to meet the needs of consumers, the construction industry pays special attention to safety, comfort, convenience and after-sales service in product planning, and builds brand awareness in the hearts of consumers. In order to provide homebuyers with a reference for choosing excellent construction companies, the National Land Management Agency of the Ministry of the Interior actively formulates and promotes the 'Identification Logo for Construction Investment Companies' and the 'Excellent Construction Investment Company Selection and Reward Measures.' Therefore, in the future, construction companies will increasingly emphasize self-requirements for building quality and the establishment of their brands. Quality characteristics and reputation image will be the foundation for the Company's sustainable operation.

B. Growing awareness of environmental protection

At present, the green building design policy has established nine evaluation indicators, including greening, base water conservation, water resources, daily energy saving, carbon dioxide reduction, sewage treatment, garbage improvement, biodiversity, and indoor environmental indicators. In order to implement this policy, the Executive Yuan issued a letter on May 7, 2003 to the two cities and the county and city governments of Taipei and Kaohsiung. Starting on July 1, 2003, new public buildings with a total construction cost of NT$50,000 thousand or more are required to obtain a provisional green building certificate before applying for a construction permit. With the promotion of government agencies, it is bound to become a trend in the future for buildings to obtain green building certificates.

C. Product diversification

The key to successful project development depends on land development and product positioning. The competition in the real estate industry is becoming increasingly fierce. If we want to perform well in this industry, we must effectively differentiate our products from competitors in the market and position them appropriately. In recent years, the sales of low-total-price villas, leisure residences, small luxury houses, and commercial and residential units near MRT stations have been leading the way. With the changes in the age structure of the population, senior housing (elderly) came into being. The Internet family, Internet system community and integrated community are gradually adopted by the construction industry, and will play an important role in product positioning and differentiated design in the future.

D. Diversification of land development methods

As real estate transaction-related laws become more comprehensive and land acquisition becomes increasingly difficult, the development of land may shift towards diversified approaches in the future. Instead of the traditional methods such as outright land purchase or joint development with landowners, land development can explore various avenues such as land leasing, land trust, commissioning construction, joint development, participation in urban renewal projects, real estate securitization, participation in government-subsidized housing construction programs, and collaboration with government policies for land release for agricultural purposes to acquire the necessary reserve land.

E. Community planning develops towards the integrity of living functions

In the future, new communities should focus on the integrity of living functions, such as nurseries, sports grounds, libraries, leisure and entertainment facilities, etc., to fully meet the needs of modern people for a basic living environment.

F. Development scale and price tend to be polarized

Due to the development of new towns, industrial and commercial complexes, and redevelopment zones, and various transportation construction projects, such as high-speed railway, highway, and western expressway, the connection between the suburbs and the city will become more convenient. As a result, individuals seeking comfortable and quiet living environments may choose suburban areas over urban areas, especially given the relatively high property prices in cities. Therefore, a large-scale self-sufficient functional community can be developed in the suburban areas of major traffic roads, which is a volumetric operation method. Additionally, due to the higher cost of land in urban areas, many developers are adopting small-scale development strategies. This allows for the planning of high-quality residential properties at premium prices, aligning with the trend of boutique-style operations.

G. Acceleration of urban renewal

In situations where urban land supply approaches saturation, urban renewal becomes the sole means for developers to acquire large land parcels within city limits. It is increasingly regarded as the biggest gold mine in the construction and real estate investment industries, particularly as old buildings undergo 'facelifts' alongside urban renewal. This trend has been further fueled by the government's incentive measures such as the 'three originals' policy, which promotes the redevelopment of existing sites, existing structures, and existing volumes.

Consequently, there has been a surge of interest in 'archaeological' properties in prime locations, with many property owners capitalizing on the opportunity by selling at favorable prices. With boundless business opportunities, the pace of urban renewal projects is expected to accelerate even further.

H. Emphasizing the Prevention of Trading Disputes

In order to avoid disputes in the transaction process, with the rise of buyers' professional knowledge and consumer protection awareness, the Ministry of the Interior has issued a real estate sales stereotyped contract, specifying the rights and obligations of pre-sale housing or land development, and meeting the requirements of the Consumer Protection Act and Fair Trade Act. In addition, strengthening construction management, ensuring project quality, monitoring the progress of completion, and applying house delivery strategies are also necessary measures to prevent transaction disputes.

2. Market share

Real estate development and construction

The profit/loss of income on property is recognized after the completion and handover of the buildings. The Company's 2024 construction project Liu Xing has not yet been completed and handed over. However, the Company continues to actively develop land and launch new construction projects, such as: Chengzhishu and Bailun section, in order to increase its market share.

3. Future market demand and supply, and market's growth potential

Real estate development and construction

In terms of the real estate market in 2022, due to the upward revision of housing prices to a certain extent and the transaction volume can continue to increase, the domestic housing market is showing an overheated state, and the government's policy of suppressing housing prices for several years has not been fully effective. With the recent promulgation of the Equalization of Land Rights Act, the housing market is quickly extinguished. Looking forward to 2023, the possible changes in the domestic housing market can be divided into the following parts:

I. Unfavorable trends in the economy, policies, and interest rates for the housing market

Due to the ongoing slump in cross-strait relations, the threat of global inflation and the pressure to raise interest rates, the economy may not show a significant improvement. Furthermore, as the government continues to control, the channels for financing are blocked and the interest rates are raised. The real estate market itself is faced with unfavorable structural factors.

II. Difficult for construction companies to reduce construction costs, resulting in stable prices and decreased quantity

In recent years, the increase in construction land, building materials and labor has made the construction cost always high. In the face of the government's real estate auction, the transaction market is shrinking in a hurry. For now, developers can only reluctant to sell and wait for the reversal of timing.

III. Exiting the real estate industry is a trend

In continuation of the above two points, the real estate industry faces pressure from both internal and external factors. Survival will depend on deep pockets; 2023 will be a stringent test for most developers and related industries. Those unable to withstand it will eventually be phased out.

IV. Urban renewal projects become a safe haven

Urban renewal (including dangerous and old buildings) is not applicable to the government's real estate control policy and there are preferential incentives. At present, major construction companies have accelerated their deployment, which will be helpful to the consolidation of the real estate market, especially in the city center. If we can speed up the urban renewal, this problem can be effectively solved. At the same time, increasing the housing supply can naturally accelerate the decline of prices, which is of positive benefit to the continuation of the business.

4. Competitive niche

Real estate investment development and construction:

- A. Forward-looking and excellent land development ability.
- B. Grasp the market demand and rigorously design and plan products.
- C. Ensure the accurate control of project quality, progress and cost.
- D. Professional management team to provide perfect customer service.
- E. Solid brand image and high market control.

5. Analysis on positive and negative factors for future development and responsive measures:

Real estate development and construction

(1) Favorable factors:

a. Excellent land development ability

Through the Asset Management Department of the Real Estate Development Group, the Company has full control of land sources in various regions with high-quality locations, and effectively creates its additional value through direct purchase of land, joint construction and joint construction, and joint construction and separate sales. The Company also actively analyzes the impacts of urban development We will introduce construction projects that meet the market demand in accordance with the operating conditions.

b. Grasp the market demand and rigorously design and plan products.

The Company not only has a good grasp of the land and construction market in prime locations, but also is familiar with the characteristics of consumers in the area, and plans and designs products that meet the needs of home buyers. Therefore, the sales rate of the current project is good. In addition, the Company offers luxury house design for its projects, which is differentiated from the general products in the market. We aim to create spaces that not only exude prestige and safety but also evoke a vacation-like ambiance, making returning home a joyous experience. This turns coming home into an eagerly anticipated moment, offering high-quality projects with customized designs to swiftly meet the unique specifications of our clients.

c. Ensure the accurate control of project quality, progress and cost.

The Company meticulously plans each property development project in advance, conducting thorough financial estimations and maintaining good relationships with banks. To ensure the quality of our projects, the majority of our construction work is outsourced to government-registered and reputable construction companies. We rigorously monitor the progress of construction, product quality, and building costs. As a result, we are able to meet our clients' requirements in terms of both delivery timelines and quality, thereby generating stable profits.

(2) Unfavorable factors:

a. Housing prices continue to rise, and the government implements various measures to curb housing prices, resulting in limited access to bank financing for home buyers and investors.

Responding strategies

i. In the selection of land development sites, the Company will prioritize identifying prime locations in well-known areas with excellent transportation access and abundant living amenities to differentiate our projects in the market.

- ii. Cultivating top-tier customers, attracting customers with mature capital, and targeting at the top of the pyramid.
  - iii. Do not blindly develop projects. Quality growth is used instead of quantitative growth. Each project is re-planned and designed to enhance the spirit and value of the project. Strengthen financial structure through sound planning and management, and continue to operate prudently.
- b. It is not easy to obtain prime land and the cost related to construction continues to rise.

Responding strategies

In response to the escalation of various costs in the future, the Company not only strengthens land development and product planning to increase the added value of products, but also strengthens internal management and shortens the construction period to reduce the impact of rising costs.

- c. Expectations of future interest rate increases and heightened risk awareness among banks are leading to stricter loan-to-value ratios as property prices continue to rise.

Responding strategies

Due to the good credit standing of the Company, the action of raising the interest rate has little impact on the Company's funding. For homebuyers, although there's an expectation of future interest rate hikes by the central bank, the funding supply in the market remains ample, keeping interest rates at low levels. Therefore, it is not expected to have a significant impact on homebuyers in the near term.

(III) Supply of main raw materials

Construction industry:

- (1) Land: We actively developed and searched suitable areas in Tainan City or other metropolitan areas for urban construction planning, and cooperated with landowners in joint development, formed strategic alliances with industry peers, or participate in urban renewal projects according to business needs, in order to ensure that there will be no shortage of supply.
- (2) Construction project: The Company has strict contracting and construction specifications to effectively control, from contracting to acceptance, the progress and quality of the construction project, so that there is no possibility of supply shortage or being affected by joint monopoly.
- (3) Construction materials: To save costs and comply with the construction schedule, the Company's originally conducted price comparison and self-purchasing of raw materials. To achieve flexible and controllable operations during contracting, we gradually switched to contract for labor and materials, or joint contracting, so as to maintain a stable supply of construction materials.

Unit: NT$ Thousand

| Item                          | 2024   | Percentage of total revenue % |
|-------------------------------|--------|-------------------------------|

| Basis for and reasonableness of the pricing                               | December 3, 2021 was set as the date of pricing of private placement. In accordance with the resolution of the shareholders' meeting held on May 26, 2023, the reference price of NT$10.35 for the private placement was calculated at the higher of the following two prices: (1) Simple arithmetic average of ordinary share's closing price on either 1, 3 or 5 business days prior to the pricing date, minus the ex-right free allotment and dividend, and adding back the capital reduction reverse ex-rights. (2) Simple arithmetic average of the common shares closing prices on the 30 business days prior to the pricing date, minus the free allotment ex-rights and dividend, and adding back the capital reduction reverse ex-rights. The price of the ordinary shares for this private placement shall not be lower than 80% of the reference price, and shall not below the par value and the net worth per share indicated in the latest financial statements audited and certified by CPAs. Therefore, the subscription price per share of this private placement is set at NT$8.41 per share, which is 81.25% of the reference price and is not below the par value and the net worth per share of NT$8.41 per share as indicated in the latest financial statements audited and certified by CPAs. The private placement ordinary share's actual issue price and pricing conditions are in compliance with relevant laws and regulations, with reference to the Company's business performance, the latest net worth and share price, and are handled according to the "Directions for Public Companies Conducting Private Placements of Securities". Therefore, the price set should be reasonable. |                |                       |                               |                                                |
